Launch of Fulfillawish

This year we have launched a compassion campaign Fulfill a wish (FFAW) under the umbrella of Help trust. FFAW seeks to actualize the wishes of children and inspire people to indulge in providing happiness through act of giving. Since the wishes enlisted are of children with restricted access to resources, FFAW also caters as an avenue to instill confidence in them and encourage them towards a bright future.

Saravanan's leap of faith makes his dream come true!

A while ago, if someone had dared saying we were not going to win the battle we have started with our Evening School, we would have probably turned our backs and moved forward, which, in fact, we did. We fought the poverty, the illiteracy, the corruption, and natural disasters; even during those many times we had no support. Looking back, we realize that our efforts were not in vain, that we are a part of the success story: an Evening School success.

Saravanan is perhaps our great achievement. Like all the other children, when he first came to the Evening School, he lacked resources, starting with education, money, etc. Nonetheless, through an assiduous effort, Saravanan is now likely to become the first Engineer from the village. L. Siva Saravanan, at 16 years, has had great performance in school and is now going to pursue his studies in the University College of Engineering, Nagarcoil.

Saravanan is a fighter. He presents us with a belief in one's own capabilities. Fighting all odds not only has he secured himself a seat in the reputed engineering college but has also managed to bag a scholarship to cover his entire education expense.

All of us at HELP Trust are very proud of him and wish him a successful journey ahead!

Our star performers from Evening School!

Uma is our another star performer. She is currently studying B.Sc. from Anna college determine to secure her future through educational and financial independence. Our driving force comes from our children's achievements. Yet again they made us proud by securing extraordinary marks in secondary school examination Suba made us proud by securing 92% followed by Ranjith 88%, Arul Raj and Vasanth 85%, and Selvakumari 83%. We wish our children at HELP Trust a very bright future and a successful journey ahead!

A glimpse of the corporate volunteering events done in HELP Trust.

A day with United Parcel Services at Fulfill A Wish community center

United Parcel Services (UPS) organized an educational tour to meet the children at the Fulfill A Wish (FFAW) community learning center. This community center is located at Kranti Nagar slum in Kandivali, Mumbai. The center is a home for learning life and career skills for children who reside in the nearby area. The team from UPS comprised of four volunteers, who spent time with the children and organized various activities along with the FFAW members. The volunteers befriended the children and interacted with them in person to understand their likes, dislikes and ambitions. Activities like Craft making, best out of waste (making paper bags out of discarded newspapers), drawing competition and computer basic skill training was conducted by team UPS. Children were divided into groups and the three hour long program ended with prize distribution and some fun games. The activity received an overwhelming response and more than sixty-two children in the age group of 03-09 years, turned up at the program. Team UPS was thrilled to meet the children and observe their enthusiasm towards learning.

The program organized by UPS represented the values the company stands for – Integrity, teamwork and service. The program was planned in a way that children not only come together and have fun, but also takeaway knowledge that would help them to become a better individual.

Thanks for the entire team UPS for taking time out for this wonderful event. For more details.
